Why should you choose a Solid Core Door over a Standard GRP Door?

Rosewood Solid Core Door

Faded GRP Door

GRP versus SOLID CORE

GRP

A typical foam filled GRP construction has only a small section of the door which is actually solid. The door is made up from two Glass Reinforced Plastic skins bonded to a sub frame which is then filled with high density foam. The Gel coated GRP skins which are bonded to the frame are vulnerable to scratching, and not easily repaired if dented.

SOLID CORE

The SOLID CORE door is made from sixteen layers of laminated veneered timber called Kerto®. This ensures the grain is not running in one direction. The grain direction can sometimes be a weak point of timber and can lead to warping, or splitting. By using a specially orientated layup of sixteen veneers, the grain is running in multiple directions ensuring the Kerto® core has significantly increased strength, rigidity, and vastly improved security.

Bonded to this are two robust coloured PVCu skins that offer a realistic wood grain effect or smooth finish in a range of colours.

The door comes complete with a Sculptured frame (Chamfered is available on request) in a choice of twenty two coloured foils as well as plain white or cream. There is also the options of a 57mm low PVCu threshold instead of the normal 77mm as well as a 24mm aluminium which can also have wheelchair ramps fitted.

Timber is naturally renewable and our Timber is purchased from sustainable managed forests and can be recycled at the end of its useful life and not destined for land fill.

Solid British Quality, Solid British Security & Solid British Manufacturing

Our composite doors offer all of the traditional good looks of timber without any of the drawbacks. While timber may crack, split or warp and of course need regular sanding and repainting and GRP may crack and fade under the glare of UV rays; uPVC requires very little maintenance, is guaranteed colourfast for the lifetime of the door whilst, offering the security, performance and long-life expectancy of modern materials.

The SolidCore door slab and Linar uPVC frame are both manufactured here in Britain under strict BS EN ISO9001:2015 quality management systems and are then assembled in our bespoke composite door factory to achieve BS EN 14351-1:2006 +A1:2010 ensuring that our own high quality standards are met.

Door Finishes

Textured & Flat Skin

Textured

A textured woodgrain finish embossed into the door design provides a timber relief onto the surface of the door. This is the standard finish on our range of Traditional doors.

Flat Skin

A grained finish with a slightly imprinted "tic" to emulate the same effect on the glazing cassettes and door frame. This is available in our Contemporary Range and our Urban Flat Skin Range of doors. When ordering please state "Flat Skin".

A photograph of a modern front entrance. The door is black with three small square windows. Above the door is a dark, shingled awning. The entrance is flanked by white walls and two wooden planters with rounded green bushes. The ground is paved with grey stones.
